The mission of the new regional program is to promote the provision of necessary health information services to health care practitioners in the region through specific services supporting the development of health sciences libraries and librarians. To accomplish this mission, we envision a set of programs in five principal areas: resource sharing, online services, education and training, consultation and program coordination and administration, including publicity and communications. These programs will be developed systematically, underscoring our firm commitment to careful planning based on regional needs, high quality products and services, and through evaluation.

The mission of the National Network of Libraries of Medicine (NN/LM)
Southeastern/Atlantic Region (SE/A) is to advance the progress of medicine and improve the public health by:

Providing all U.S. health professionals with equal access to biomedical information.

Improving the public's access to information to enable them to make informed decisions about their health. The Program is coordinated by the National Library of Medicine and carried out through a nationwide network of health science libraries and information centers.
